Academy MUSIC NOTES. June 7. 84

Mr. Charles Hallé's Chamber Concerts at the Prince's Hall have been well attended this season. At the third, Rubinstein's grand Pianoforte Trio in C minor (op. 108) was performed for the first time in this country. In his songs and short pieces for the pianoforte, the composer has produced much that is charming; but in many of his longer works, though we come across passages of considerable interest, we find not a little that is dull, and, besides, plenty of padding. And so it is with this Trio; the second movement is the most attractive of the four. The work was admirably played by Mr. C. Hallé, Mdme. Néruda, and Herr F. Néruda, The programme included Schumann's "Papillons" for piano solo, Brahms' Sonata for pianoforte and violin, and Beethoven's Trio, op. 70, No. 2. At the fourth recital (May 30) Mr. Hallé introduced another novelty—a Pianoforte Quartett in F, by F. Gernsheim. Some of his music has been heard at the Monday Popular and other concerts. The Quartett now under notice is one of his later compositions: it shows clearness of form, skill in workmanship, though not much originality; the first and third movements pleased us the most. It was interpreted by Mr. C. Hallé, Mdme. Néruda, Herr Straus, and M. Laserre. The programme included Solos for piano and violin, and Beethoven's Trio for strings in E flat.
